

Additional Trusted Health Resources

Healthfinder

Developed by the U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services, this site will help you find authoritative government and nonprofit groups concerned with specific diseases and conditions.

<http://www.healthfinder.gov>

Kids Health

Offers information about childhood diseases and more.

<http://www.kidshealth.org>

Mayo Health O@sis

Operated by the Mayo Clinic, draws on resources of it's world-class staff and is updated daily.

<http://www.mayohealth.org>

MedScape

An online, peer-reviewed medical site covering a variety of topics and now includes

CBSHealthWatch.com

<http://www.medscape.com>

National Library of Medicine

Provides access to PubMed, the world's largest collection of medical information which features references from medical journals around the world.

<http://www.nlm.nih.gov>

Oncolink

The University of Pennsylvania's respected site on cancer therapies.

<http://www.oncolink.upenn.edu>

The Federal Trade Commission's (FTC)

Website where you can obtain a partial list of the commission's trusted medical information sites.

<http://www.ftc.gov>